JANE ISAAC

When a series of women's bodies are discovered in the heart of rural Hamptonshire with a pentagram carved on their chests, DCI Helen Lavery is forced into a cat and mouse chase with a murderer who ultimately turns the tables and targets her.

Meanwhile, she is shocked to discover that her younger son's new best friend is the nephew of organised crime boss Chilli Franks – the man who has held a grudge against Helen's family since her father first put him away in the 1990s.

As her personal and professional lives collide, Helen finds herself in mortal danger as she races to track down the serial killer and restore safety to the streets of Hampton.

SARAH PENNER

Hidden in the depths of eighteenth-century London, a secret apothecary shop caters to an unusual kind of clientele. Women across the city whisper of a mysterious figure named Nella who sells well-disguised poisons to use against the oppressive men in their lives. But the apothecary's fate is jeopardized when her newest patron, a precocious twelve-year-old, makes a fatal mistake, sparking a string of consequences that echo through the centuries.

Meanwhile in present-day London, aspiring historian Caroline Parcewell is running from her own demons. When she stumbles upon a clue to the unsolved apothecary murders that haunted London two hundred years ago, her life collides with the apothecary's in a stunning twist of fate—and not everyone will survive.

With crackling suspense, unforgettable characters and searing insight, The Lost Apothecary is a subversive and intoxicating debut novel of secrets, vengeance and the remarkable ways women can save each other despite the barrier of time.

THE SLEEP OF REASON

4 April 2022

MARK ROWLEY AND DAVID DERBYSHIRE

A brutal massacre at a theme park leaves eight dead and triggers a wave of extremist violence across Britain.

On the trail of the killer is Detective Superintendent Sophie Gabriel, who must confront her past as she races to stop rival Islamist and neo-Nazi terror groups bringing a deadly campaign of violence to Britain's streets.

As community tensions rise, the coalition government appears to be exploiting the crisis for its own ends. In the midst of a political and media whirlwind, Gabriel and her team must stop a ruthless terrorist attack that could leave hundreds dead.

Co-written by one of the UK's leading counter-terrorism experts, The Sleep of Reason is a tense and compelling thriller which sees young men radicalised into murder and toxic politics fuelling extremism and violence.

CORRECTIONAL

1 June 2022

NJ CROSSKEY

'Twelve inmates, one chamber. It's time to face justice, live!'

Saturday night – primetime. The nation settles down to watch a special edition of Justice Live - the most popular, and sadistic, reality show ever made. Twelve of the country's most notorious criminals are paraded in front of the cameras as the public vote to decide which one will face the horrors of the justice chamber. But correctional officer Cal Roberts has bigger things on his mind. Tonight he plans to bring down celebrity guard Dax Miller, for good. Tonight is his chance to put things right, once and for all.

Correctional is a near-future dystopian novel that examines themes of inequality, poverty and the cycle of criminality, whilst simultaneously shining an uncomfortable light on our obsession with the macabre and sadistic. Black Mirror meets UnREAL in an Orwellian nightmare-scape.

Comparison Authors:

Perfect for fans of Sally Hepworth, Liane Moriarty, Lucy Foley, and Megan Abbott.

Think you know your neighbors? Think again.

When actress Allison Langley leaves her former rockstar husband in the middle of the night, her sudden departure becomes the talk of upmarket Oak Hill. But the relentless gossip comes to an abrupt halt when five-year-old Billy Barnes disappears on his walk home from kindergarten.

Is there a predator lurking in the leafy suburb? Weeks later, three-year-old Amy-Pat Davies vanishes from her backyard. In addition to sharing a zip code, the missing children have another thing in common – their babysitter, Cassidy McLean, who has a secret of her own.

A twisty tale which explores the damage caused by infertility, infidelity, and the intense pressure that stems from wanting to raise the perfect family in a seemingly idyllic community. A voyeuristic view into marriages and modern parenting, it is filled with secrets and juicy gossip and insightful observations. This book will resonate with anyone who's ever wondered what's really going on next door.

"I couldn't put this down." Catherine McKenzie, bestselling author of *Please Join Us and Fractured

"The combination of super-relatable characters and nearly unbearable suspense made it impossible to stop reading" Sarah Warburton, author of *You Can Never Tell

How far would you go to follow your heart?

In medieval Moldova, two women from opposing backgrounds fall in love.

But this is a world where a woman's role is defined by religion and class. To make a life together means defying their families, the law, and the Church. The closer they become, and the more they refuse the roles assigned to them, the more sacrifices they have to make. While Mira's rebellion puts her life in the gravest danger, Elina must fight to change her legal status to 'son' so she can inherit her father's land and change their destiny.

Set in Stone delves into the past to uncover a story which is just as relevant today: the desire to forge your own path while constantly having to resist a patriarchal fear of women's strength – and how ultimately love can help you choose your own truth.

"Stela Brinzeanu weaves an engrossing tale of superstition, rebellion and love. A richly rewarding read." Esther Freud

ANY OTHER FAMILY

12 August 2022

ELEANOR BROWN

They look just like any other family. But they aren't a family like any other – not quite.

Instead they are three sets of parents who adopted four biological siblings, committing to keeping the children connected after the death of their grandmother.

A surprising call from their children's birth mother – announcing she is pregnant again and wants them to help her find an adoptive family for this baby too – threatens to destroy the delicate bonds they are still struggling to form. As tensions rise, the three women reckon with their own feelings about what it means to be a mother and what they owe each other as a family.

Any Other Family is a thought-provoking and poignant look at how families shift and evolve and a striking portrait of motherhood in all its forms.

"Rewarding. Brown entertains with her colorful cast and engaging conceit." Publishers' Weekly

"A prismatic story of family, adoption, and how the people we choose to keep close shape who we are." Kirkus

15 September 2022

When 25-year-old Emelie is found murdered in her Stockholm apartment the same week her ex-partner is released from prison, it feels like an open and shut case for Detective Vanessa Frank. Who else would launch such a frenzied attack on the young woman?

But Frank suspects there is something they're missing. Could the killing be linked to the rising online movement of men who want to punish women, the so-called 'incels'? When a survivor of brutal sexual assault comes forward, Frank uncovers more about this shadowy group who, in their own words, have weaponised the gender war and will stop at nothing to make themselves heard.

Desperate to stop any further attacks, Frank escalates the investigation when a music festival intended to be a safe space for women becomes a potential target.

BLUE SKINNED-GODS

4 October 2022

SJ SINJU

Traveling from the ashrams of India to the underground rock scene of New York City, Blue-Skinned Gods explores ethnic, gender, and sexual identities, and examines the need for belief in a fractured world

In Tamil Nadu, India, a boy is born with blue skin. His father sets up an ashram, and the family makes a living off of the pilgrims who seek the child's blessings and miracles, believing young Kalki to be tenth human incarnation of the Hindu god Vishnu.

Kalki is confronted with three trials in his tenth year—tests of his power that will prove his divine status and, his father tells him, spread his fame worldwide. Over the next decade, as the story of his family unravels, his relationship to everyone—his dominating father, his beloved cousin, his cancer-stricken aunt, and the young woman he imagines he will marry—threatens to fall apart. At once a personal tale of youthful searching, and a magisterial, continent spanning tour-de-force, Blue-Skinned Gods is unwaveringly honest and heartbreaking, a powerful novel told through the eyes of a wonderfully winning and idiosyncratic protagonist.

WINTER PEOPLE

6 October 2022

GRAINNE MURPHY

The wild Atlantic coast of Ireland. Three strangers. One question: who are we without the people we love?

Sis Cotter has lived her whole life in a small house by her beloved beach. Here, she grew up, reared her family, and buried her husband. Now her children are far away and, in three days, her house will be taken from her.

Next door, Lydia has withdrawn from her husband, her friends, her life. She watches the sea as her own private penance for a wrong she can never put right.

Peter's best friend is dying, and his long-time foster mother is slowly forgetting who he is. Adrift without his two anchors, and struggling with the ethics of displacing people for a living, he looks for something to remind him of who he is and who he wants to be.

WINTER PEOPLE is a story of forgiveness, resilience, and the power of the sea to unlock what we are most afraid to say.

YOUR BRAIN IS PLAYING TRICKS ON YOU

1 May 2022

HOW THE BRAIN SHAPES OPINIONS AND PERCEPTIONS

ALBERT MOUKHEIBER (TRANSLATED BY ANNE-SOPHIE MARIE)

Why are we often convinced that we're right even when we're wrong? Why are we jealous, or paranoid, even when we have absolutely no reason to be? Why is it so easy for fake news to spread around the globe and fool us?

It's because we don't see the world as it is, rather we reconstruct it in our mind. Reality is way too complex and multiple to be apprehended by our capacities of attention, which are quite limited, as well as our brain abilities. That is why our perception of the world is subjective and various elements influence the way we acquire knowledge and form opinions. Our brain is recreating the world in its own way – most of the time for our own good: how hard would it be if, before making a choice, we had to know about all the options available in a given situation? It would take us forever to choose an item of clothing in a store, or a meal in a restaurant! Luckily, our brain can estimate: even if it makes us imperfect and subject to illusion, delusion and error, it allows us to reconstruct the world as we know it, and live in it.

However, these very useful mechanisms can sometimes mislead us and have a rather negative impact on our actions, beliefs and opinions: when our brain behaves that way, we say it is biased. Albert Moukheiber gives us tips and tricks to fight against these cognitive biases – the first one being not to trust ourselves too much and to always doubt our thinking processes, especially in this era where social networks spread information like an epidemic. In this book, filled with multiple examples from our daily lives and psycho-social experiments, Moukheiber explores the building blocks of our perception, cognition and behaviour, which are involved in acquiring knowledge or forming opinions.

THE DISCOVERY OF THE IMMUNE SYSTEM

SHANTHA PERERA

ISBN (Paperback): 9781915054524

ISBN (Ebook): 9781915054531

Price: £14.99 (Paperback), £9.99 (Ebook)

Extent: 320 pages

Format: 234 x 156mm

Rights Held: World

Genre: Popular Science / Immunology

In December 2019 a new virus emerged, one that caused a global pandemic. Millions were infected. In the recesses of their fragile bodies a battle raged: between the immune system and the virus. But what is the immune system? What are its components? How do they work?

One way to understand this system, arguably the most complicated in human physiology, is by walking on the footprints of history, one observation and experiment at a time, beginning with the first written record of the concept of immunity in 430 BCE, through the ensuing centuries that gave the world vaccines, organ transplantation, novel therapies for cancer and now the understanding and tools to tackle the pandemic virus.

An entertaining and informative popular history, At the Edge of Mysteries introduces the reader to a compelling cast of characters, from Edward Jenner and Louis Pasteur to the Nobel laureates of the modern day. This book glimpses into their lives and times, seeking clues to their genius, their yearning for discovery, and asks the question of what can be learned from the past in the age of global pandemics.

'A unique historical perspective - which can be read and understood by all. A captivating read' Paul Murray, Professor of Molecular Pathology, Institute of Immunology and Immunotherapy, University of Birmingham

Price: £14.99 (Paperback), £9.99 (Ebook)

Extent: 352 pages

Format: 216 x 138mm

Rights Held: World English

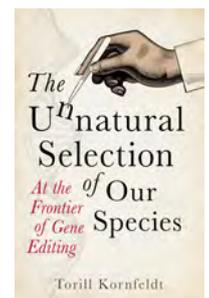

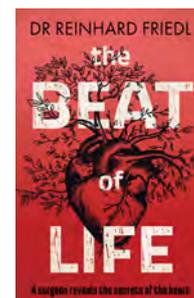

Genre: Popular Science / Biology / Physiology

Smell is arguably the least understood sense, yet it has always been a vital component of the human experience, and that of all living creatures. It has been used by plants and animals for millions of years to warn, to attract, to identify, to navigate and even to mislead.

Smelling to Survive explains some of these fascinating processes, and explores how the past would have smelt quite different to our ancestors, and how future technologies will further change the world of scents.

Along the way, leading scientist Bill Hansson recounts amazing stories from the world of olfactory research: from the tobacco plant that excretes an alarm odour, to mosquitos that cherish the smell of sweaty feet, to lilies that imitate the fragrance of horse manure. Hansson explains why scientists are interested in the smell that surrounds teenage males, and how climate change affects the smell of our environment. He describes research trips to Christmas Island, where crabs with particularly keen noses crack coconuts on the beach, and outlines studies that reveal how penguins recognize their partner by their scent.

Similar titles published by Hero. The Beat of Life (2021), The Unnatural Selection of Our Species (2021)

Key Selling Points:

- Written by the director of the prestigious Max Planck Institute for Chemical Ecology.
- Very topical subject in the context of the Covid-19 pandemic and loss of smell.

A SURGEON REVEALS THE SECRETS OF THE HEART

REINHARD FRIEDL

The heart is our most important – and perhaps most mysterious – organ. Every day it pumps 9000 litres of blood and beats around 100,000 times. But the heart is more than just a pump. In all major human cultures, it is seen as the source of love, sympathy, joy, courage, strength and wisdom. Why is this so?

Having witnessed the extraordinary complexity and unpredictability of human hearts in the operating theatre – each one individual in its make-up, like a fingerprint – heart surgeon Reinhard Friedl went on a search for answers. He examined closely the latest findings in neurocardiology and psychocardiology, and in The Beat of Life he shares his discoveries, using riveting personal stories to illustrate the complex relationship between the heart, the brain and the psyche.

'Reinhard Friedl explains why love resides in the heart, whether it can be broken by grief and why heart and brain form a unit'

Kleine Presse Graz

BREAKING STEREOTYPES ABOUT PREHISTORIC WOMEN

THOMAS CIROTTEAU, JENNIFER KERNER, ERIC PINCAS

(TRANSLATED BY PHILIPPA HURD)

45,000 years ago, rare and precious statues of faceless women with hourglass figures, sturdy hips and generous breasts surfaced across Europe. Spanning thousands of years and nurturing many a fantasy, they are known as the prehistoric Venus figurines. But what were the women who inspired these artefacts really like?

For 150 years researchers offered no archaeological insights into the daily lives of prehistoric women and underestimated their role in society. In fact, these women became imprisoned by clichés. Prehistoric man hunted, went on adventures, invented, created and drew, whereas the role of prehistoric women was limited to educating children and carrying out domestic chores. That's all there was to say about it, or almost.

Over the past fifteen years a new generation of researchers – many of whom are women – have shaken up this model. By establishing groundbreaking analysis protocols and defining new excavation methods, these scientists are finally able to make the invisible visible. It is thanks to their tenacity that the essential and even prestigious role of prehistoric women is emerging. For the first time ever these ancient women are being resurrected before our very eyes, shedding light on a new theory of our origins

Key Selling Points:

- Following the success of antiracism books
- Very high-profile author, crossover appeal to football fans

Comparison Title:

Why I'm No Longer Talking to White People about Race by Reni Eddo-Lodge, How to Be an Antiracist by Ibram X. Kendi, Natives: Race and Class in the Ruins of Empire by Akala

What does it mean to be white? Beyond just a skin colour, is it also a way of thinking? If so, how did it come about, and why?

In this book, drawing on history, personal experience and activist literature, the former footballer and World Champion Lilian Thuram looks at the origins and workings of white thinking, how it divides us and how it has become ubiquitous and accepted without challenge. He demonstrates how centuries of white bias and denial justified slavery and colonialism, and have reinforced norms and structures of oppression, limiting the roles and horizons of both non-whites and whites alike.

Crucially, while White Thinking is a critique of ingrained structural inequities, it calls for an inclusive approach to solving the problem, and aims to raise awareness and imagine a new world in which all of humanity is given equal weight.

"Football is not the focus of White Thinking. But since the sport is a prominent part of society, it can influence and be influenced."

The Guardian

"It will provoke vital conversations."

CITY A.M.

Author:

Lilian Thuram, born in Guadeloupe in 1972, had a prestigious international career in football for the French national team – World champion in 1998, European champion in 2000, World Cup finalist in 2006 – and played for elite European clubs such as Juventus and Barcelona. In 2008, he created the Lilian Thuram Foundation to educate against racism, and he has become a high-profile activist himself. He is the author of various non-fiction books.

Comparison Title:

The Road to Recovery by Andrew Smithers, The Body Economic: Eight experiments in economic recovery, from Iceland to Greece by David Stuckler

10 November 2022

We have recovered from many crises in the past: war, depression, pandemic, natural disaster. Often, we've bounced back from these challenges to build an even better future.

The Spanish Flu was followed by the economic prosperity of the Roaring Twenties. In the decades following World War II, the German and Japanese economies grew into the world's most advanced. In the USA, the social and economic policies responding to the Great Depression laid the foundations for twentieth century prosperity.

As we contemplate recovery from the current health and economic crisis while confronting the climate emergency head on, what can we learn from other recoveries? Through interviews with experts, policymakers and community leaders, this book examines past recoveries and investigates implications for the future. It explores what went well, what we should do differently and what the implications might be for the recovery ahead of us.

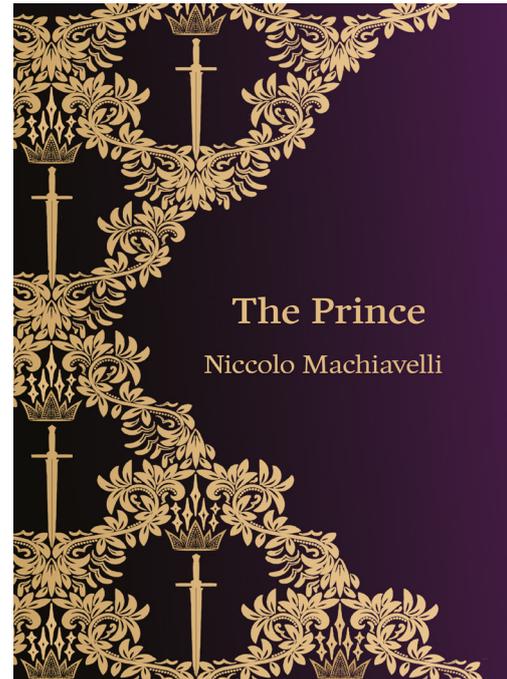

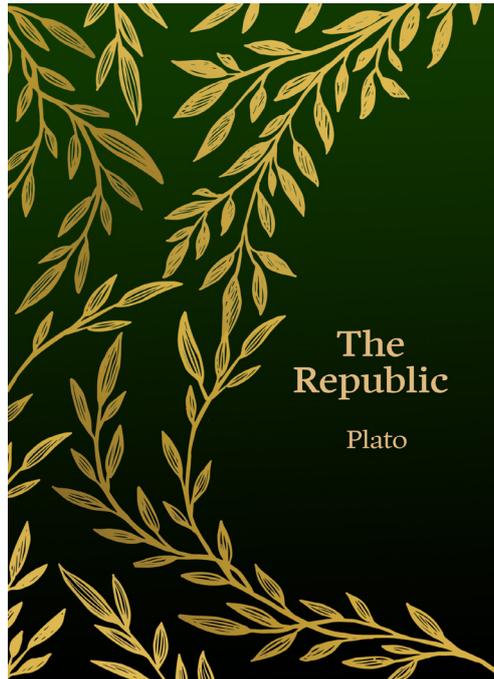

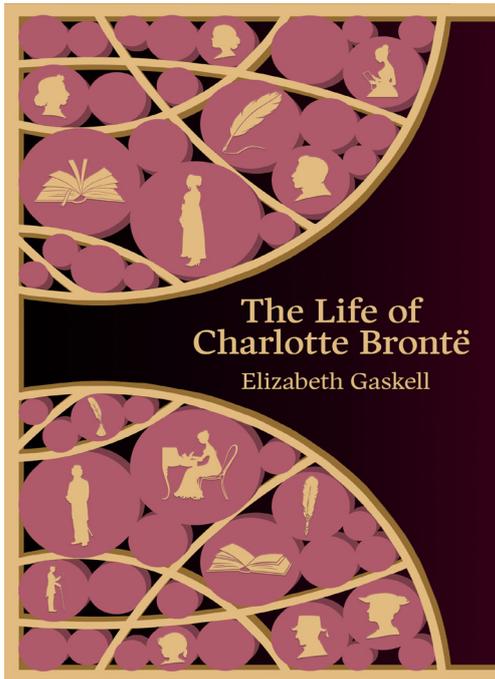

With governments prepared to lead, listen to expert advice and involve communities in decision-making, not only is a successful recovery possible, we can also choose to reevaluate many of the things that we thought were fixed. The COVID-19 crisis gives us a once-in-a-generation opportunity to build back better.

ISBN (Paperback): 9781800310872
ISBN (Ebook): 9781800310889
Price: £9.99 (Paperback), £6.99 (Ebook)
Extent: 256 pages
Format: 138 x 216mm
Rights Held: World (excl. French)
Genre: History / Military History / First World War

On 1st July 1916, it was in the Bay of Somme that the British lost the greatest number of soldiers in all of their history: why did they go there and what happened there?

Englishmen, Scotsmen, Irishmen, Welshmen, Canadians, South Africans, Australians, New Zealanders – many soldiers from Great Britain and the Commonwealth volunteered in 1916 to attack on the front in Picardy, a much heavier involvement than in the previous years of the First World War. On 1st July 1916, more than 20,000 of them lost their lives on the battlefield of the Somme, coming to the aid of a French army exhausted by Verdun.

It is the deadliest day in British history and the recognition of this sacrifice was then – and has remained since – relatively muted in France, as this grim anniversary is celebrated across the Channel, illustrating how much national collective memories differ. Comparing French and English archives to try to understand why and how so many men died, Jean-Michel Steg gives this episode its central place in the memory of the Great War.

Key Selling Points:

- A thrilling account of one specific First World War battle
- Will appeal to military history enthusiasts, as well as general non-fiction readers

Author:

Jean-Michel Steg works as a Senior Adviser to financial firm Greenhill & Co. He holds a PhD in History from EHESS in Paris, a Master's degree from the Sorbonne University in Paris, an MBA from Harvard Business School and a degree from the Institut d'Etudes Politiques de Paris. He has been nominated in France to the Ordre National du Mérite.

The former Secretary of State for Education, Lord Baker, crossbench peer Lord Dearing and industrialist Sir Anthony Bamford shared a vision. They imagined a new type of secondary school that would prepare young people for careers in science, technology and engineering.

University Technical Colleges (UTCs) offer a curriculum linked to key sectors of the economy and deliver it in partnership with employers, using real-world projects and industry-standard equipment. UTC students go on to fast-track apprenticeships, higher education and rewarding careers.

Conceived under a Labour government, UTCs were expected to offer qualifications called Diplomas as part of a new 14-19 phase of education. After the 2010 general election, Conservative ministers had other priorities. UTCs opened just as policy shifted in favour of traditional academic subjects, strict accountability measures, multi-academy trusts and competition – not collaboration – at the local level.

This account of the first ten, turbulent years of UTCs is based on contemporary records, meetings with people who run them and interviews with some of the young people they were set up to serve.

ENDORSEMENTS

"This book is a must read for anyone interested in high quality technical education." Sir Mike Tomlinson, former Chief Inspector of Schools

"An excellent insight into the UTC curriculum" Sir Anthony Seldon

"Vocational success story of the last decade in English educational policy" Professor Bill Lucas, Director of the Centre for Real-World Learning at the University of Winchester

Rights Held: World (excl. French)
Genre: History / Military History / First World War

6th June 1918 saw more American soldiers fall on French soil than the famous 1944 D-Day landings. Why is this fact so little known?

As well as providing a detailed account of this funereal episode, Lafayette We Are Here! looks at the reasons behind American involvement in what was primarily a European conflict. Why did a neutral government in 1914, driven by a largely pacifist population, end up joining the Allies in 1917?

In this third instalment of his trilogy concerning the deadliest days of the First World War, Jean-Michel Steg investigates a cataclysmic battle for the American Marines in a small wood in northern France, and presents an informative and accessible overview of the military strategy and geopolitical context.

"The historian retraces the unknown fate of the American Marines who fell in numbers for France a hundred years ago, on 6 June 1918 in Belleau Wood... This clear and succinct little book supplements the story of this battle with an explainer on the history of America's engagement from April 1917." La Croix

THE STATUS AND RECOGNITION OF POST-1992 TRANSNISTRIA

AN INVESTIGATION OF THE CASE FOR DE JURE INDEPENDENCE

RICHARD COLBEY

Holding Image

Transnistria is legally part of Moldova, and is nestled between Moldova and southern Ukraine.

After the USSR broke up, its people's desire not to be governed by Moldova led to a 1992 war in which nearly 1,000 died; since then, it has maintained de facto independence, although it relies significantly on Russian economic, political and military support. Technically, there is still a conflict between Transnistria and Moldova, but this has become frozen and they enjoy reasonably civil relations.

Resulting from six years of research, during which the author made nine visits to the territory – where he interviewed politicians, judges, public servants, human rights lawyers, diplomats, police officers, academics, students and others – this book examines what the best future for Transnistria is and whether de jure independence is a viable solution.

- Chapter One: Transnistria as a Nation
- Chapter Two: Transnistria as an Economically Viable Nation
- Chapter Three: Transnistria as a Free, Democratic Nation, Subject to the Rule of Law
- Chapter Four: Transnistria as a Functioning Society
- Chapter Five: How Can Transnistria Become an Independent State?

Genre: IT, Coding, Computer Technology

These books, classroom-tested and perfected by Phil Bagge through his website code-it.co.uk and published in conjunction with Hampshire Inspection and Advisory Service (HIAS), aid teachers in providing Key Stage 2 pupils with an exciting and challenging computer science curriculum.

They can be used to supplement existing programming modules or as a complete KS2 computer science program of study. They contain a series of programming projects that gradually introduce pupils to algorithm design and evaluation, generalisation and decomposition. Pupils will learn how to use sequence, repetition, selection and variables through becoming creators of a wide variety of programming projects. Maths, literacy, humanities, gaming, music and control skills are all put to the test.

There are four pupil workbooks to provide structure, resources and home learning links. These are designed to work in conjunction with the teacher book. In addition, there are also two home learning books that have been devised for children to learn programming outside of school. A growing bank of online videos are also available, designed to help teachers improve their own skills and take full advantage of the cross-curricular benefits of developing depth in programming.

The Scratch programming language, widely recognised in schools, is freely accessible online or as a download and is the ideal place to begin programming.
